LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF THE WAR

Correspondence of the Associated Press

(By Associated Press.)
FRANKFORT, Germany, Sept. 17.—"Learning how to play" is now a part of the curriculum of the embryo German soldier who is being prepared and trained for the front. In every garrison and barracks in the empire there are at present thousands upon thousands of recruits, young and old, and every last one of them has to know how to play before he is considered fit for the trenches.

This new policy is based upon the sound principle that the soldier, in the hours and days when he is resting behind the front while his relief fights, must have something to occupy his mind and keep his body fit.

An Associated Press correspondent recently made a fairly comprehensive tour of southern, western and central Germany, and there was not a city without its thousands of men hard at work at the paradoxical combination of fighting and playing.

Rigorous drilling has by no means been omitted from the curriculum of the soldier under training, and he can probably do the famous goose step quite as well as he could in peace time. But nevertheless, vastly less attention is paid to it than in former years, for the reason that the goose step is not exactly an essential in the trenches of France or Russia.

Frankfort's largest barracks are constructed around a square perhaps 500 feet square—a square enough to accommodate easily a dozen or a score of groups of soldiers. There is the customary marching, exercising in saluting, bayonet drill work, setting up drill, and dummy shooting practice.

The first impression is almost invariably one of confusion, as squads go charging across the parade ground, throwing themselves suddenly to the earth, rising and charging again.

To the extreme rear of the guard is a series of wooden walls, rising higher and higher into the air. They are imaginary fortress walls that have to be scaled, and for hours the white-clad soldiers mount on each other's shoulders and clamber over. It is this strenuous work that is most popular.

One corner of the parade ground is reserved for the playing, chiefly such simple games as blind man's buff, tag of war, leap frog and the like. The favorite game is one in which a score of soldiers form a circle, while two of their number, blindfolded, attempt to catch each other in the center. It is all absurdly simple, and interesting to watch for a moment, but experience has shown that it has great value in relieving mental strain. The soldier coming out from under fire has about two desires—to eat and to sleep—and after he has done these no amount of reading, or conversation, will make him forget himself as well as physical exercises that relieve his cramped limbs and make him laugh.

It takes approximately six weeks of training in the garrison or barracks to equip an infantryman for the field nowadays. If a portion of each day is devoted to target practice, the man of average intelligence can shoot with a reasonable degree of accuracy in four weeks. The cavalry and artillery training takes longer, the latter about ten weeks, because the soldier must know something about the mechanism of the gun and its use.

The infantryman does not have to learn anything about a cannon, nor the artilleryman a great deal about marching or bayonet work, and the cavalryman's chief attention is to his horse and his sabre and lance work. But all these have to know how to play, and are taught how with characteristic German thoroughness.

MINIMUM BIRTHRATE FIXED AT THREE

(By Associated Press.)
THE HAGUE, Sept. 17.—Dutch book reviewers have received a surprising book entitled "Woman's Contribution to the Defense of the Realm" by Dr. A. Gröfjahn, professor of hygiene in the University of Berlin, in which he sets three children as the minimum birthrate for every German family. "If this official number is not reached," he continues, "the parents who are negligent must be heavily taxed for the benefit of those who do their duty."

The author would take no account of eugenics, asserting that "with our lack of definite knowledge about the laws of heredity we cannot say what children may or may not be sufficiently healthy to do their duty for the Fatherland."

The professor contends that the role of womanhood is to be more highly appreciated as the result of the present war. Woman is to be recognized as a factor in the defense of the realm in proportion as she contributes men to build up the army and increase the glory of the state. "For only those highly cultured nations which can defend themselves will be able to acquire immortality," the author concludes.

AUSTRALIA SHOWING
INCREASE IN RECRUITS

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN ENLISTED FOR THE IMPERIAL SERVICE

(By Associated Press.)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 17.—The recent appeal from the British war office for more soldiers has been met with such an increase in recruiting that the Australian government will be able to double the October and November reinforcements, making them 16,526 for each of those months, instead of 5,263, the usual monthly quota. It will also be possible to send to the front in November a complete brigade of infantry, and this offer has been accepted by the imperial authorities.

When the troops now ready for the front have embarked, Australia will have dispatched 80,000 men to the fighting line, and have to her credit 20,000 more men who have enlisted for imperial service—a total of 100,000 men.

THE SPIRITS NOTIFIED

(By Associated Press.)

KANAZAWA, Japan, Sept. 17.—Following the receipt of news that Marquis Maeda, son of the feudal lord of Kanazawa, had joined the British army, an interesting service was held at the Oyama shrine, which is dedicated to the ancestors of the Maedais. Its purpose was to inform the ancestral spirits of the action of the future lord of Kanazawa.

OPPORTUNITY FOR AMERICANS

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The fear that hundreds of England's valuable works of art will be forced on the market as a result of war's economic pressure, and will be forever lost through purchase by wealthy Americans, is expressed by the art critic of the Daily Mail.

NOT INFERNAL MACHINES

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The two glass breakers found beside a hatch of the White Star liner Lapland, lying at her pier here, were today learned to have contained liquid for refilling fire extinguishers, and not acid calculated to set fire to the ship, as police and private detectives believed last night.

NEW TYPE ZEPPELINS
UNDER CONSTRUCTION

HALF MILLION DOLLAR AIR CRAFT TO BE MOUNTED WITH CANNON

(By Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 17.—The latest Zeppelin airship constructed at Friedrichshafen differs from its predecessors, according to details from Romashorn on the Swiss side of Lake Constance, in only one important feature and two minor changes. A small platform has been provided on the top of the balloon for a cannon to protect the ship from aeroplanes and the speed has been increased by an additional propeller and motor. Owing to the extra weight, however, the carrying power of the Zeppelin is diminished. The new airship is of a slate color. The total cost of this latest airship is $500,000, double the cost of the first Zeppelins produced. It is reported from Germany that the greatest difficulty in the use of Zeppelins is the lack of capable pilots, most of the best men having been killed or made prisoner.

MERGER IN ABEYANCE

No work is being done in the Merger mine, nor has been done since it was purchased by the Extension. The plan is to drive from the Victor to the Extension workings, which will facilitate work in Merger ground. There is ore in sight in this acreage and interesting developments are expected when the campaign of development begins.

TRIED AND SUBMITTED

The case of E. B. Gray vs. L. C. Grant, to recover the price of a suit of clothes, which case had been tried and appealed from the justice court, was heard Wednesday evening by Judge Averill. It was taken under advisement, the court stating that a decision would be rendered Monday.
